Throm-B-Gone: Optimizing the Timing of Anticoagulation After Stroke Secondary to Atrial Fibrillation

Session Date: 05/07/2024
Session Time: 11:00 – 11:45 AM (CST)

Target Audience

This continuing education (CE) session was planned to meet the needs of professional staff who deal with the selection and monitoring of medication(s) as part of their patient care duties, including pharmacists, RNs, APRNs, PAs, MDs.

Activity Overview

Current guideline recommendations do not provide clear recommendations surrounding the timing of anticoagulation after a stroke secondary to atrial fibrillation. While recent studies show promise with direct oral anticoagulants compared to older options, they use inconsistent definitions for “early” versus “late” initiation, highlighting the challenge of balancing the risk of repeat ischemic stroke with hemorrhagic transformation. This presentation will review literature comparing early versus late direct oral anticoagulation initiation in patients with atrial fibrillation who have had a stroke while also considering patient-specific factors that can influence optimal timing.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this knowledge-based CE session, participants should be able to:

1. Describe the current role of anticoagulation in secondary prevention of cardioembolic stroke.
2. Review primary literature addressing the timing of direct oral anticoagulants after stroke secondary to atrial fibrillation.
3. Develop an evidence-based approach to post-cardioembolic stroke anticoagulation, considering knowledge gaps and individual patient factors.
